

Short Review: “Brainwaves” (1982) by Dr. John L. Flynn

Brainwaves (aka Mind Games) (1982). Independent International, 77 min. Director and Producer: Ulli Lommel. Screenwriters: Lommel, Buz Alexander, and Suzanna Love. Cast: Keir Dullea, Suzanna Love, Tony Curtis, Vera Miles, Percy Rodriguez, and Paul Wilson.

A silly, unremarkable thriller that plays out like an episode of “Quincy” rather than a legitimate sci-fi movie. When a young woman (Love) is injured in an automobile accident and ends up hospitalized in a coma, she receives the brainwaves of a murdered girl in a bizarre transplant conducted by a mad doctor (Curtis). Her newly revived brain experiences a series of flashbacks in which she recalls the murderer. But before she can tell the police, the dead girl's assailant begins stalking her. Not very original!!! Most viewers will need to have their brainwaves revived after sitting through this one.

Copyright 2008 by John L. Flynn, Ph.D.